

Marilyn Sutherland
MSW, ODR Practitioner

Marilyn has worked in the helping field for a number of years in various capacities such as child welfare, addictions, mental and health services for all ages. As a First Nations person, teaching and accommodating the revival of culture and traditions has been a purpose and focus. Current practice with ADR -Link since May 2015 has provided the opportunity to help families with conflict and understanding. Utilizing the traditional forms of helping has created a place for families to understand their strengths and worth as part of community. A phenomenon that has been complicating our world has intrigued and guided my own purpose in bringing lives together of all races. This is part of the world-view instrumental in the work as helpers.
